Dear Members,

With the July 4th holiday now behind us, we come to you with a special summer edition of the newsletter that shares everything you need to know for July and August.

This month, the culinary team welcomes back several of ZZ's summer classics, while the bar introduces a Daiquiri that feels perfectly suited for warm Miami evenings.

Meanwhile, the FIFA World Cup is about to enter its most exciting stretch — and the US Open is just around the corner, proving that there is no shortage of occasions worth celebrating at your Club, even in the dog days of summer.

Warmly,

Jeff, Mario, and Rich

"Summertime. It was a song. It was a season.
I wondered if that season would ever live inside of me."
— Benjamin Alire Sáenz

FROM THE KITCHEN

Tomato

The arrival of tomato season is one of the culinary highlights of the year. For ZZ's Members, it signals the return of two seasonal classics that make the most of summer's finest ingredient.

First is the Caviar & Tomato, a sunny season counterpart to our signature Caviar & Avocado. In this preparation, we cure a magnificent tomato until it becomes even more luscious, then fill it with bluefin tuna tartare, yuzu crème fraîche, and more Golden Ossetra Caviar than you could possibly need.

Equally irresistible is the Salmon-Tomato nigiri: rich Ora King salmon is paired with a bright heirloom tomato chutney before being gently kissed by the flame just before it leaves the sushi bar.

FROM THE BAR

Watermelon Daiquiri

The Daiquiri may be one of the world's most perfect cocktails, but summertime invites a little improvisation. This seasonal variation showcases the concentrated sweetness of seedless watermelon, paired with Mount Gay Rum from Barbados, fresh lime, Thai basil, and a hint of vanilla. The result is impossible to resist on a sunny afternoon in the Magic City.

Extra, Extra
